

Room Focus: Home Environment

What is the Home Environment?

The Home Environment is a representation of a member's home. Here, KP will prototype the use of remote patient monitoring devices and approaches for chronic disease management, health promotion and wellness, and communication between clinicians, family members, and third-party providers.

Home Care is an area where KP expects to place more emphasis in the coming years as its members choose to receive care and counseling in a way that is convenient, efficient, high quality and affordable – and that meets their busy lifestyles.

In the Home Care area Biomed and KP-IT will test connectivity options, integration between medical and consumer devices, and home care hubs, as well as new medical devices designed for home and ambulatory use.
